Our Privacy Vow

Your privacy is important. We strive to provide you with a safe and secure user experience. On occasion, there may be instances wherein information must be obtained in order to differentiate you from our thousands of other unique visitors. This helps us provide information and services that are most relevant to you.

You can access our web site home page and browse our site without disclosing your personal data.

The Services and Links of Our Web site

Our web site does not enable our visitors to communicate with other visitors or to post information to be accessed by others. Our Web site provides clear notice of links to third-party Web service providers.

Collection and Use of Information

At certain parts of our site, only persons who provide us with the requested personally identifiable information will be able to use tools or otherwise participate in the site's activities and offerings.

- We use aggregate data collected to inform our local offices of the number of people from their areas who are registered users. No personally identifiable information is disclosed in this process; only general information in aggregate form.
- Non-specific, aggregate data is also used for the purposes of collecting general demographic information, measuring user interests, and analyzing the collective characteristics and behaviors of our registered visitors. The collection of this information allows us to appropriately change, update, and service the Web site in accordance to common trends.
- We collect individually identifiable information about you when you choose to share information about yourself for example, when you make a donation, request information, or sign up to be a volunteer. This information may include your postal or e-mail address, your telephone number, and your area of interest.
- From time to time, Junior Achievement of Chicago may use your information to inform you of changes and enhancements to our content and services. For those who have elected to receive information from Junior Achievement such as offers or information about the company, we may send you direct mail regarding products we feel may be of interest to you. We will NOT release your personal information to other organizations without your express permission.
- Junior Achievement of Chicago is in compliance with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act of 1998 (COPPA). The personally identifiable information we collect is in no way intended for those under the age of 13. Where "age" or "date of birth" is requested, it must be indicated that the user is over 13 years of age in order for the information to be stored or transmitted. (For more information, visit the Federal Trade Commission's COPPA site at <http://www.ftc.gov/bcp/online/edcams/kidzprivacy/adults.htm> .)

- We respond to subpoenas, warrants, or other court orders regarding information that is contained within our access logs concerning any member or visitor. We also reserve the right to release that information concerning a user who we believe is in violation of Junior Achievement's terms and conditions or other published guidelines and official rules, even without a subpoena, warrant, or other court order. We cooperate with law enforcement agencies in identifying those who use our servers for illegal activities. We also reserve the right to report any illegal activity to law enforcement.
- Junior Achievement also cooperates with, and reserves the right to release any and all information to, tax collection and tax law enforcement agencies in order to identify those users who may owe taxes on earnings from Junior Achievement prize winnings.

Cookies & Links to Other Sites

Some of our Web pages use “cookies” so that we can better serve you with more tailored information. Cookies are pieces of information that Web sites transfer to your browser to keep on your computer for record-keeping purposes. It should be understood that cookies do NOT collect any information, but rather store preferences. The information we collect and analyze is used for the sole purpose of improving our service to you.

The use of cookies is now an industry standard, and will be found on most major Web sites. If you so desire, you can set your browser to either notify you when you have received a cookie, or refuse cookies altogether. It should be understood that many sites will not function properly if your browser is set to decline cookies.

Our site provides links to other Web sites where you can find out more about our organization and services and/or partners. Please note that our organization is not responsible for the information practices of linked sites. We encourage you to review the privacy policy of each site you visit.
